CREDO REFERENCE INTRODUCES COLLECTIONS OF TITLES FROM SOME OF THE WORLD'S LEADING PUBLISHERS; NOW AVAILABLE ON THE ACCLAIMED CREDO PLATFORM.

Why Publisher Collections?

At Credo Reference we recognize that libraries' reference needs go well beyond that which is included in a General Reference service. Publisher Collections will enable libraries to augment their Credo General Reference subscription with specific, deep reference content from highly-regarded publishers.

Multiple Publishers – One Platform

Libraries have long expressed a strong desire to have as much content as possible available on the platform of their choice. By offering libraries a set of Publisher Collections to run on the same platform as their Credo General Reference subscription, this vision is a large step closer to becoming a reality.

Flexible options

Libraries can subscribe to Credo Publisher Collections; many titles will also be available for purchase. Publisher Collections are available as a stand-alone option or alongside a subscription to Credo Reference's General Reference product.

A 'Grand Encyclopedia' for users. Customizable by librarians

While users will experience their library's collections as one integrated reference resource, librarians will experience Publisher Collections as the building blocks for assembling a comprehensive set of reference resources for their library user.

Libraries that also subscribe to Credo Reference's General Reference product will have their Publisher Collection titles seamlessly integrated. Absolutely no user training or experience necessary—the content will simply be part of the Credo Reference experience.

Growing List

Currently announced collections include Wiley-Blackwell, MIT Press, SAGE Reference, CABI and IGI Global. New Publisher Collections are forthcoming; contact us for the latest information.
